Places of Interest

1 Lithari

A double rock cliff that looks like a moray fish, like a monstrous form in the center of the village. This is how it is described by researchers who have proven that energy flux runs through it. Some also believe that this is where Atlantis was. From satellite images, its diamond shape looks like the Taurus constellation.

An ideal place for touring and rejuvenation.

2 Troulorotsos

From studies of vital energy invisible electro-magnetic channels, that go through earth on important buildings such as the Parthenon, the Great Pyramid and others, one such was identified in Cyprus. It can be found on the Kornos - Delikipos road. Studies refer to abundant positive cosmic energy. It's a 'trikerato' (three horns) with a height of approximately 20 meters. It is believed that such sites were used for charging the energy (holy spaces and sacred oracles) and are considered having healing and rejuvenating powers.

An ideal place for touring and rejuvenation.

3 Diplogefyro

A beautiful and tranquil lake with a double arch bridge on the Kornos - Delikipos road. Situated just off the road, in an environment with rich flora, among pines, the lake hosts many frogs and wild ducks.

Ideal for walks and picnics.

4 Caves

The caves, another treasure of nature, are old caves behind a residential area near the new Church that look like rocks. One cave is quite large. There are many myths about them. For example, it is said that they have been used for holy purposes, and were a refuge for Christians.

Nice place for exploration and climbing.

5 Picnic area

An ideal place for picnics and food on the grill in a specially designed area in the forest of Kornos.

Please make sure to keep these places clean during your visits. Special attention should be paid to prevent causing fire as the area is particularly sensitive because of the dense vegetation.

Churches

When you visit the churches please be appropriately dressed and extinguish candles when leaving to prevent causing fire.

KORNOS

The Village of the Red Clay

The picturesque village of Kornos is built upon hilly grounds between Nicosia, Limassol and Larnaca, at an altitude of 320 meters above sea level. It is set among pines, cypress, eucalyptus, acacia, terebinths, mastic trees, olive trees and wildflowers. The area is ideal for cycling and trekking excursions. Kornos is especially known since ancient times for its pottery craft, the reputation of which has surpassed the borders of Cyprus and receives world-wide recognition. In the village there are ancient remains showing that it was inhabited since antiquity. Ali Bey, the Spanish Domingo, who visited the village in 1806, writes: I could not obtain any information about the origin of the village. It must be old. It may contain thirty houses at the most. Its position is very pleasant, in the midst of a small valley ridden with olive and locust trees. Almost all the inhabitants are occupied with pottery. The surrounding mountains are covered with cypress trees that grow in dense tufts here and there.
